Jalapeno Jelly 'n Cream Cheese

The tradition of making jalapeno jelly in the Hill Country dates way back. It's dandy for all sorts of things like slathering on your morning biscuit with lots of butter, or serving on lamb with a little mint stirred in. But undoubtedly, the most popular use for jalapeno jelly is as a party munchie served over cream cheese. Set out a plate of it with your favorite crackers or tortilla chips and watch it disappear in no time at all!

8 ounce block cream cheese, softened

1 jar Fredericksburg Farms Jalapeno Jelly

Your favorite crackers or corn tortilla chops

Fresh red jalapeno, fan sliced as garnish, if desired

Place the block of cream cheese in the middle of a serving plate. Pour the Fredericksburg Farms jalapeno Jelly over the cream cheese, and add a spreading knife. Garnish with fan-sliced red jalapeno, if desired, and serve with a basket of your favorite crackers or corn tortilla chips.
